

HOLLAND, PORTUGAL, BELGIUM HELD BY FEARS

Loss of Colonial Empire Holdings Always Possible

BY MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
London—John Bull never likes to loosen his hold on a piece of land. This historical fact plus recent happenings in Europe adds up to headwinds for Belgium, The Netherlands, and Portugal.

Colonial demands originating in Berlin and Rome alarm the Belgians, the Dutch and the Portuguese.

Since the partition of Czechoslovakia they have a distinct feeling Britain is interested most of all in British possessions.

The smaller countries feel the British may say to Hitler: "You take Belgium's African colonies and forget about those you lost to Britain."

While Great Britain is first and France second among the empire holder, little Holland, with the rich Dutch East Indies, Belgium with a vast stretch of the Congo in Africa, and Portugal with Angola and Mozambique in Africa are next in line as empire holders.

Dutch Spend For Defense

Developments in the Japanese war also have alarmed the Dutch with respect to their island possessions, and the next budget carries an increase of 15,000,000 for defense purposes. Most of this will be spent in the Indies, which the Dutch think the Japs covet.

But the more immediate danger lies with the Belgian and Portuguese possessions in Africa.

Germany is demanding back her former colonies, Togoland and the Cameroons in equatorial Africa were divided between France and England.

The vast territory of German Southwest Africa was mandated to the dominion of South Africa.

The equally big German East Africa was mandated to England and renamed Tanganyika. Portugal got no German territory. Belgium got only a small piece which was added to the Belgian Congo.

While the Nazis maintain a fierce campaign for their lost African colonies, statesmen and publicists in Britain declare against their return.

Down in Tanganyika a kinsman of one of the British royal family has said that anybody dreaming of returning the territory to Germany would be a traitor to the empire.

He scathingly said Germany had shown herself a persecutor of minorities in her own country.

This would not encourage giving her African territory in which there were natives and Indians, to be submitted to her tender mercies.

The leading statesmen of South Africa have declared they will not give up their mandate of German Southwest Africa.

South Africa conquered it from the Germans and South Africa is determined to hold it.

The dominion does not intend to have hundreds of miles of frontier with a German colony.

Confronted by these declarations, some circles in Britain have been looking around for a way to "compensate" Germany.

Just as these people were willing to have Czechoslovakia dismembered to buy off peace for themselves, they now are willing to chuck to the Nazi tiger pieces of other people's territory.

The Daily Express of London uttered the raw truth of what is in their minds. It said:

"The division in Africa is untenable. It does not correspond to the realities of the modern world. Great tracts of Africa are owned by small European countries such as Portugal and Belgium, which do not possess the resources sufficient to guarantee the security of the development of their properties. There must be a redistribution in Africa."

Good Memory

Alarmed Belgian statesmen have declared Belgium would not yield an inch of her Congo territory.

Premier-Dictator Salazar of Portugal said:

"We will not admit discussion of our sovereignty over territory in Africa either at Geneva or at Paris, London, Rome, or Berlin."

"Our possessions were not taken from many other nations. We discovered them centuries ago. We have held them ever since."

Belgium and Portugal have been only partly relieved by a semi-official declaration from German sources that the Reich is not to be fobbed off by promises of Belgian or Portuguese territory, that Germany does not expect the small countries to make sacrifices to spare Great Britain, that Germany wants her own back.

This sounds good, but the record is such that Portugal especially has cause to worry.

Back in 1929 Germany proposed to England that they share Portugal's African possessions. A plan was actually drawn up, but fell through.

Once more in 1912-13 a similar plan was discussed. Once more it fell through.

But the fact remains that Britain was discussing division of the territory of her most ancient ally, whose territories she was engaged to defend.

FARM LOAN PLAN HAS PROVED AID TO FOREIGNERS

Gives Outside Producers Advantage in Other World Markets

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Administration leader indicated today the United States might have to adopt economic measures to win international cooperation on a program designed to help cotton and wheat producers.

A proposal that the principal producing nations meet in an international conference to work out such a program was advanced yesterday by Secretary Wallace after a White House visit with President Roosevelt.

Such a program, the secretary suggested, might provide an "equitable division" of the world markets and elimination of such trade practices as price cutting and dumping.

Back of Wallace's proposal was a broad hint, farm officials said, that unless other countries joined in a cooperative effort, the United States might take steps to enable American cotton exporters to meet foreign prices.

Existence of a record supply of 50,460,000 bales of cotton, or almost twice as much as is normally consumed in a year, has depressed prices. Half of this supply is American cotton.

World Prices Lower

Farm officials said world prices would be considerably lower now except for the American cotton program, embracing production control and withdrawal of 11,000,000 bales from market channels under government loans. To the extent this program bolstered world prices, they said, growers in other cotton countries have benefited.

On the other hand, they declared, the American loan program has tended to give foreign producers an advantage in world markets. Exports from other countries have gone up this season while those of the United States have dropped 40 per cent.

The loan program, officials explained, has pegged American prices, thereby making it easy for foreign producers to undersell.

Form officials said they believed the use of a subsidy program to hold this country's "fair share" of the world wheat markets was largely responsible for plans now being made in London for an international conference on the wheat problem.

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, Jan. 19.—Herr Adolf Hitler would seem to have been dipping his quick spoon into Uncle Sam's foreign trade porridge again.

Two of the greatest countries of the western hemisphere are involved — Mexico and Brazil. And that is something for America to ponder, since the ever-hungry Nazi Oliver Twist has been getting a lot of his economic vitamins lately from good neighbors in the Monroe doctrine area.

Specifically, a usually well-informed German news service says that an improved and extended system of bartering merchandise between Germany and Brazil is planned.

Mexico recently made a sensational barter transaction for disposing of some $17,000,000 worth of oil, taken mainly from expropriated wells of American and British companies. Most of it went to grease the wheels of Germany, and a lot of folk think this has encouraged Mexico to expand such oil sales to the Reich.

System Wonder of Time

The Nazi barter system is one of the wonders of our time. The fatherland swaps its products for the products of other countries without any cash changing hands. In simplicity it's on a par with the trade whereby one schoolboy exchanges a jack-knife with a broken blade for a live beetle in a bottle.

Germany has resorted to the barter system because she hasn't sufficient ready cash to trade in any other way. Naturally she has to find countries which are of the same frame of mind—countries wanting German goods and having products that the Reich needs.

Here is the general idea of the Nazi barter scheme:

Credits Established
Not one red copper in cash changes hands normally. What happens in effect is the establishment of credits against which the traders draw. That is, the farmer takes five dozen eggs to the general store and gets credit for a dollar (if he's lucky); when the farmer wants a pair of suspenders he pays for them out of his dollar credit, and both he and the store keeper have achieved their aim.

The German system varies somewhat in various parts of the world. In many of them its South American transactions the "credit" has taken the form of a special German mark called the Aski mark. That is used, say in payment for goods bought in Chile, and the Chilean can use it for the purchase of German goods—for nothing else. These Aski marks are always at a heavy discount which gives the Germans an advantage over competitors.

Masaryk Defends His Campaign for Jews

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The treatment of the Sudeten minority by the Czechoslovakian republic "was heaven compared with the hell that exists in Sudetenland now," Jan Masaryk said last night.

Masaryk, son of the founder of the republic and was its first ambassador to the United States, spoke at the annual meeting of the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

"What statesmen have done temporarily to us—and we believe it is only temporary—has been done to the Jews by Germany," he said. "There is every justification therefore for me to speak in this country for the Jewish cause."

Mexico's Minister to Germany Sails Today

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—General Juan Azacarte, Mexican minister to Germany, sailed for Europe today, refusing to comment on reports of an expansion in trade relationships between Mexico and Germany.

"Naturally," he added, he was resuming his post "to improve relations between Mexico and Germany."

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman, questioned about possible oil and munitions negotiations between the two countries, said: "We will have to wait and see what happens when he arrives."

Georgia produces 36 per cent of the nation's peanuts.

Japan Gravely Concerned By U. S. Navy Plan

Tokyo, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Japan is gravely concerned by United States naval expansion plans, the naval office spokesman declared today, and fears establishment of airplane and submarine bases in the Pacific would be but advance preparation for "long distance attack."

"Fortification of Guam (1500 miles from Japan) would be like placing a gun against the gate of a neighbor," said the spokesman, Rear Admiral Shozaburo Kanazawa.

Establishment of bases at Midway and Wake islands, he continued, would surround "our undefended mandate islands"; fortification of Guam "in the mandates" would seem an unnecessary way to treat Japan "in view of our policy of non-attack and non-aggression."

He emphasized that these mandates—the South Sea islands held by Germany before the war—were unfortified and under present international agreements could not be fortified.

For this reason, the spokesman said, "Guam would have a real strategic value if fortified" although Japan's objection to expansion in the Pacific was "moral rather than legal" since no treaties exist to prevent it.

Of his own navy and nation he said: "That the strength of Japan's navy is not sufficient for long distance attack across the ocean is quite clear, not only from the experts' point of view but also from a commonsense viewpoint. Our national defense policy is to keep the navy strong enough to defend the western Pacific. We have no ambition to attack anything outside this area and no aggressive policy. We do not understand the necessity of expanding the United States navy with such a tremendous budget as this year."

Gable and Estranged Wife Hit Settlement

Hollywood, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Clark Gable and his estranged wife, Maria, have reached a complete financial understanding and she may seek a divorce in the near future, it was learned today.

Negotiations between the film star and the dark-haired middle-aged matron were undertaken to clarify provisions of an agreement by which she received an estimated $286,000 since their parting in 1935.

Mrs. Gable's attorney, Isaac Pacht, said today that a settlement approved by both sides had been made.

Dissolution of the eight-year marriage was indicated last month when Gable announced he would ask his wife for his freedom as soon as the legality of their property pact was upheld.

Among Hollywood friends, it was predicted that the actor would wed Carole Lombard, screen comedienne, if he regained his single status. They have been "keeping company" at social and sports events the past two years.

The first airmail trip in the United States was on May 15, 1918, between New York City and Washington, D. C.

INDIANA LIQUOR CONTROL
Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A Republican liquor control bill threatened to stir up a bitter battle over political plums in Indiana's legislature today.

House Republicans, in the majority, introduced the bill yesterday. Democrats control the senate.

The bill would do away with the system under which beer can be brought into the state only through 13 importers, who must pay a $1,500 yearly fee and may collect handling charges. This has provoked retaliatory legislation from neighboring states.

Frankfurter To Take Court Oath Jan. 30th

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter, newly confirmed associate justice of the Supreme Court, said today he "will probably take the oath" of office January 30, when the high tribunal reconvenes after a two weeks' recess.

The former Harvard law professor and Mrs. Frankfurter came to the capital by train from Boston.

Justice Frankfurter will be assigned to the three-room suite of offices in the court building which was set aside for the late Justice Benjamin Cardozo, whom he succeeded. Cardozo never used the office, however, preferring to do his work at home.

On the bench, the new jurist will sit next to Justice Hugo Black at the extreme left of Chief Justice Hughes.

81 of 343 Ballots in Chicago Precinct Marked By One Individual

Chicago.—(AP)—Eighty-one of 343 Democratic ballots cast in one precinct of the 24th ward in the April 12 primary were marked by the same person, Mrs. Katherine Keeler, a handwriting expert, testified yesterday in the trial of five precinct officials charged with contempt of court. Mrs. Keeler said that of 49 Republican ballots cast, 27 were marked by the same person. She based her findings on the type of pencil used and the fact the crosses resembled plus signs.

Jersey Calf Club of State Rewards Youth

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Francis Boyle, 15, a 4-H club member from McNabb, Ill., was among the first of 33,000 club members in the state to receive 1939 recognition for excellence in club work, the extension service of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois announced today.

Boyle was given a purebred Jersey heifer for superior ranking in a dairy club project. The award was voted by members of the Illinois Jersey Cattle Club at their annual meeting during farm and home week. The calf came from the herd of Frank Chamberlain, Charleston, vice president of the cattle club.

Boyle has been in club work for six years. He lives with his parents on a 427 acre farm. He started with a Jersey heifer in 1933 and now has a herd—a cow, two heifers and a calf. The prize calf will be added to this herd.

Committee to Demand End of Sales of Munitions to Japs

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Legislation to curb the sale of American war supplies to Japan was demanded today by the newly-organized American Committee for Non-Participation in Japanese aggression.

Former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson is honorary chairman of the committee.

The committee said an immediate appeal would be made to 40,000 prominent citizens for support of a program for "informing the American public of the part we are playing in Japanese aggression, and to translate American disapproval into action for stopping aid to Japanese militarism."

RELIEF IN POLITICS

It is suspected in some quarters that those senators and representatives who favor reducing the president's proposed $75-million dollar work relief appropriation to 725 millions for the remainder of the fiscal year are merely making a political gesture. It is argued that when the 725 million dollars are exhausted, congress will be ready to make a deficiency appropriation for the difference.

If these suspicions are borne out by experience, then the congress will not have approached the relief problem in a realistic way. If the congress actually cuts the appropriation and means it, then we are getting somewhere. The idea is not to evaluate dollars higher than human life. The congress is faced with the necessity of working out a program of caring for the needy in a way consistent with preservation of the national credit.

One suggestion is that the rolls be purged of those who are receiving relief, but can get along without it. It will be argued among ardent New Idealists that there are no such people on the relief rolls. There are no such people, of course, in this community. Positively not. But in other communities there are, without doubt. If these people who can support themselves were made to do so, there would be a saving.

Another proposal is that relief be turned back to the states. That would involve consideration of those areas which, so they say, can not afford to support their needy, and which now, through federal intervention, are enable to siphon money from more prosperous areas.

Relief, according to an old conception, is a local problem and should be handled locally. It might involve a means test; it might involve proof of pauperism. Perhaps an applicant for relief might be required to prove before he could establish eligibility, that he had no property that could be sold to support himself as long as possible. At any rate, every applicant for relief furnished locally comes under personal scrutiny of a poormaster who, in turn, must conserve his funds and account for his disbursements. That is a somewhat dilatory picture, but at the same time it would appear that a person actually is eligible for relief and can prove his case, he could get it from a local poormaster as readily as from some more distant place via congress, via WPA administrators. Such help would be in the form of a dole, perhaps—but isn't a straight dole cheaper than help through building projects? The other side of the picture is that a dole is demoralizing, while to work for money, even if it is "made work," helps a relief client to retain his morale.

Evidence is seen in Washington of a sincere effort on the part of congressmen to reach some solution to the unemployment relief difficulty. These understand that under present circumstances they must reduce expenses, and at the same time they must continue to spend.

It would be a historic development if they were to decide that the best cure for unemployment misery is not doles and
"made work," but a campaign by the government to regain the confidence of business men, to relieve them of the attacks by New Dealers, and start the wheels of industry turning so as to provide legitimate work for the jobless.

WOMEN ON JURIES

Friday, March 3, will be observed as Women-on-Juries day in Illinois, due to efforts of the Illinois committee for women on juries. Various women's organizations are to take part in a drive for what seems to be termed "full citizenship."

There is a measure of justice in the demand by women to be permitted to serve on juries. If people are told they can't serve on juries, especially if that restriction is a hangover from the period in which the ballot was denied, they are likely to resent it.

On the other hand, when we are told we must serve on juries, we are apt to find that service inconvenient, although we accept the duty in a patriotic way, just as one serves in the army.

As to practical benefits to be derived by the state or justice in the abstract, due to women in juries, some skepticism is excusable. We remember the time when women were proclaiming that if they were given the right to vote, politics would be cleaned up. We were given the impression that none but lily-white candidates would dare face an electorate that included woman's famous intuition. Since then, by amendment to the constitution, women are permitted to vote and politics still needs to be cleaned up.

However, if women in general demand the right to sit in a jury box and digest complicated facts and statistics in civil cases, and squalid details in others, and if they put enough "umph" into their campaign to succeed, it is to be doubted whether juries will be any more unpredictable than now.

On the 27th of that month Mars is scheduled to approach the earth to furnish the astronomical attraction of the year. Don't start selling your household belongings, however, for the planet will still be at a distance of 36,030,000 miles.

The mere fact that science can now accurately forecast
such phenomena and describe their effects should put to rest all fears over Martian invasion or any other such nonsense. If a planet, militarized with monsters, ever hurtles into the earth, astronomers will certainly know about it beforehand and issue a warning.

Still some July guy will probably theorize that a Martian chieftain heard last year's broadcast and is sending his nation down to fulfill the prophecy.

ACCENT ON RELIGION

The contrast between United States attitudes on religion and those of certain European nations is highlighted as the New York World's Fair approaches.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., speaking at a luncheon for exposition executives, asked further subscriptions for the completion of a Temple of Religion on the grounds.

"The world today is not so much in need of skill as of character," he said. "How incomplete the World's Fair would be as a picture of the American people if it did not prominently feature religious life."

In recognizing worship as a key unit for one of the greatest exhibitions of the year, the United States proves its unwillingness to be led into political policies which crush religion to the earth.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

THE CHARACTERS

Peter Mallone: An adventurous
young Englishman.
Petronella: His sister, and staunch supporter.

Yesterday: All her life Petronella has pulled Peter out of trouble. Now that they are grown up,
Peter wants to become a newspaperman.

Chapter Two

CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE

Petronella sat at a marble-topped table in a restaurant in the Strand. Her thoughts were following Peter anxiously. All the morning they had been doing this;
Peter seeing, or not seeing editors,
she waiting for him. Now it was one o'clock. They were breaking fast. No one had suggested seeing him between one and two.
thirty. In a moment, Peter would be out again. Had they been fools to be optimistic? The editors themselves had warned Peter,
when they waited for his request for an interview. Their stuffs were full at present, but in case, at some future date, a vacancy should occur they would be pleased to see him and hear any ideas he had to put forward. Why, if they didn't want anyone, should they trouble to see him, unless there was a little hope?

Her mind was so occupied that she scarcely noticed the woman who sat down opposite her, but
the lady had a large black case, whose bestowal, out of the way of passing waitresses, occasioned her difficulty. She pushed it under the table, but it touched Petronella's leg.

"Will that be in your way?" She had a pleasant voice, and her eyes were a lively brown.

"No, not at all, honestly," Petrel smiled, liking her instantly.

"It is a case full of papers and photographs," the woman told her. "I'm going to see the editor of a large paper, to try to interest
him, and get his support for my work in China."

Petronella's sympathy was spontaneous. "How funny," I'm waiting for my brother. He's seeing an editor, too. He just wants a job. And I'm sitting here, almost praying. But you—I expect he's sure to listen to you." She felt that this largish lady in dark brown had gracious personality.
She wanted to know what work
she did. Could she be a missionary, or a school teacher? Petrel felt
not. She looked at once happy, glad and so enthusiastic that she would be capable of interesting any editor in anything. The corners of her firm lips curved upwards, and neither the slight frown down on her upper lip, or her heavy, dark, sleepy eyes, could detract from the pleasantness of her expression.

"You'll remember me,"
The woman smiled at her.

"Yes, I want to see something for the White Russian refugees who are settled in Manchuria—North China."

"Have you just come back?"

"Yes, I went to see for myself,
collected evidence of the fearful
poverty, their terrible situation, and to write a report. I'm afraid I couldn't tell you very much about
it. It would sadden, and horrify you too much, to know that such suffering was possible. These people, who, years ago, had homes
like ours, before the revolution,
now live like animals, in holes hollowed in the hillsides. They envy those who die of cold and starvation. And the children—well, that is why I'm hoping to start centers for medical aid, child welfare, and free food and clothing. It won't be possible to solve their real problem. But it will help a little.
When you read about it, you'll remember meeting me. My name is Clare Horton."

"What are White Russians?" Can't they ever go back? I ought to know. My aunt, who is something's sister, has told me, but I've forgotten again. She and mother were born in Russia. My grandfather was a portrait painter in St. Petersburg. I have cousins who are still there. But the family has lived in England so long, we scarcely realize we're not all English. Think of it—among those people there may be distant relations of ours. Could you explain?

Why are White Russians so hating to write and speak for the end of her brief explanation, Petronella was opening her handbag.

Miss Horton smiled. She seemed to understand, from Petrel's sudden hot color, that she had forgotten she was down to two shillings.

"Some other time! We haven't launched the appeal yet. There is a great deal of organization to be done. But will you remember about it? You might be able to collect round your home, for me;
or if your brother becomes a newspaperman, you might persuade him to write and speak for the cause. You offer, and I'll give you some help. What is your name?"
Petronella told her.

The waitress came. Miss Horton ordered coffee. Petronella chose a lemonade, for she was thirsty.
Between drinking it through a straw, and casting glances at the door, to see if Peter was coming,
she told Clare Horton a good deal about herself.

"Twisted grin"
Here came Peter!

She started up to meet him, deciding not to trouble him with an introduction to Clare Horton,
even though she might be famous.
They would sit at another table.
For there was that twisted grin
on his face, to tell her that he had failed again, but that he was not beaten yet. Or that he might not feel so beaten when he had had some lunch. She did not need to ask what had happened.

"Sorry to have been so long. I spent most of it in the outer office waiting. But at least this man actually bothered to tell me, personally, that I was no use to him.
You all right?"

"Yes, dear. I've been talking to rather a wonderful woman. She's over there. She's going to meet an editor, too."

Peter looked at Clare Horton.
"I'm sure she'd do better than I did," he said.

Petronella stood on the pavement in Fleet Street. The sun was hot, reflecting upwards like a furnace, and the smell of exhaust,
from passing cars and buses, was doing its best to choke her painful, swollen throat. Her feet burned and ached, and her eyes felt dry. Looking up at the Daily Express building, which had just sent Peter packing down its stairs,
she again, her heart filled with disappointment, misery and unreasonable rage. "Fools! Fools!" she muttered. But she was only trying to believe that they were foolish,
to refuse Peter's offer to work for them. For her confidence was disappearing. She had never felt so tired in her life. That did not matter. If only something would come of this dreadful day, she would be able to understand why they should call this the street of adventure. But it did not look as if anything would. Moreover, every man Peter had seen sounded utterly out, dried, and practicalruthlessly unadventurous men,
demanders of previous experience,
or qualifications. They, none of them knew a real adventurer when they saw one. Petrel decided staunchly. They were blind, pig-headed specialists. They thought they knew everything. But this time they were wrong! If only Peter were given the chance to prove that. In a moment he would be out again. There were only two more names on his list. Not very hopeful names.

Light-Weight Pipe for Women Smokers at Show

Chicago, Jan. 19—(AP)—A light-weight pipe for women
smokers was among the oddities
on display today at the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors.

Another novelty was a cigaret
case with a surface on which autographs can be written.

Exhibitors set up a tobacco
shop of the Civil War era, complete with the wooden Indian, clay
pipes and corn cobs, but the piece
de resistance of the whole show
was a set of 32 matched grain
brier pipes made to retail for $1-000.

Officials said it was the world's most expensive pipe set.

Indians of southern Mexico have a unique bin for storing shelled corn against weather and the depredations of the harvester ant.
It is built in the shape of a cup
and saucer, with a thatched roof,
and the saucer part is filled with water.

Capitol Hill

Some Items Behind the News in National Capital Today

BY BRUCE CATTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 19—Between the congressman orating earnestly in the Capitol and the posterity
that will one day muse over his remarks there is a great gulf.

Bridging this gulf is the Congressional Record.

Jokes have been made about the Record ever since George Washington's day. It is popularly supposed to be one of the world's driest publications. But there is nothing at all dry about the way it is gotten out. There is a job geared to speed, a job done as smoothly and quickly as any in the land.

Twelve official reporters are the shock troops. Six of them work in the Senate and six in the House.
It is up to them to take down
every word that is said in each chamber, reduce it to type and start it on its way to the Government Printing Office. Unofficially, they are the Congress' guardians
of clean speech, good grammar, and literary embellishment.

Pen Or Pencil, They're Fast

The official reporter—an artist
in shorthand—may use a pencil
and he may use a pen; if the latter, he wears on one finger a tiny cylinder full of ink, made in some trick fashion so that the ink won't spill. The oratory may come as fast as 200 words a minute, but that makes no difference, these reporters are geared to a 250-word clip.

In the Senate, he is relieved at the end of 12 minutes, hot or cold;
in the House he works until he thinks he has enough and then turns the assignment over to someone else. In either case, when he leaves the floor he goes at once to his office and reads what he has just written into a telephonograph machine. A typist transcribes all of this as soon as he has finished,
and he takes the manuscript back to the chamber and sends a copy
to each member therein quoted.

The member reads what he has said and polishes it. He may delete cuss words and reconstruct grammatical errors, but he is not supposed to alter the meaning of what he has said.

What About My Caviar?

When everything is properly polished up, the manuscript goes to the Government Printing Office. By midnight, every word spoken on either floor is in type;
by 4 in the morning, the Congressional Record is ready for distribution.

The job isn't over even then,
however. Before the Record becomes part of the government's permanent files, members may submit corrections. As a sample:
Congressman Knutson arose on the floor the other day to point out that Russian caviar had been omitted from a menu he offered in a satirical comment on the Jackson Day dinner. The correction was duly made, and Russian caviar goes to the constituents.

With permission of the House or Senate, which is almost invariably granted, a member can get included in the Appendix of the Record—a section printed at the back, daily—an extension of his remarks. These may be any thing under the sun—speeches he admires or has made off the floor,
letters from constituents backing
up some point he has made, poetry
he happens to like.

It costs about $50 a page to print the Record. (This doesn't in-

REFUSES PROBE WITHOUT ORDER OF HIGH COURT

Gas and Electric System Serves Notice on the Power Commission

Washington, Jan. 19—(AP)—
The Associated Gas & Electric system served notice on the Federal Power Commission that it would not submit its records or permit officers to testify on the reasonableness of their charges
until and unless ordered to do so by the Supreme Court.

The commission had issued subpoenas calling for both the records and testimony by the company's officers in an effort to determine whether the 14 service companies in the far-flung Pennsylvania utilities domain were operating inconsistently with the public welfare.

No Books in Evidence

No books or records were in evidence as the long-heralded investigation got under way and the first witness, C. A. Dougherty, defiantly refused to identify himself or his connections with the Associated system.

The commission, in announcing the subpoenas had been issued,
said the 29 officers for whose appearances the subpoenas called,
were "reported to be under the control of H. C. Hopson."

"On advice of counsel," Dougherty droned, reading from a typewritten sheet, "I respectfully decline to answer x x x until the commission's right to interrogate
me is determined by x x x the Supreme Court of the United States."

Walter B. Saul, chief defense counsel, told the commission the position of the witness was obvious—that the commission lacked the fundamental right to pursue the investigation until the courts had so ruled.

"The Real Purpose"

"The real purpose" of the investigation, he charged was not stated in the commission order.

The real purpose, he said, was to obtain information for the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission "so that it might impose penalties on the Associated Gas & Electric subsidiaries for alleged violations of state statutes."

Saul challenged the commission authority "to meddle in purely local affairs."

The commission said the hearing was ordered to "obtain, at first hand, information relating to the services these companies have performed, the reasonableness of their charges, and the extent to which they may control or are controlled by other companies or individuals in the Associated system."

clude the cost of maintaining the corps of official reporters, nor the cost of maintaining the congressmen; just the actual cost of setting the type, making the plates, proofreading, binding, and so on incurred by the Government Printing Office.) Last year the Record ran to 13,386 pages and set the taxpayer back about $669,300.

The official reporters are paid $7500 a year. They are miffed, though, because the comptroller general not long ago ruled that the job of shorthand reporting is not a profession. They think it is,
say it takes from six to 10 years
to make a good shorthand reporter.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of
"THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. I do not think so. Dr. Kretschmer, a German psychiatrist, thinks he has proved there are four types—Pyknic—short, fat,
"jolly"; Athletic—symmetrical;
Asthenic—tall, slender; and Dys-
plastic—those not fitting in exactly with the other three. Dr.
Kretschmer thinks each type has a different temperament and, when insane, shows different types of insanity. I have reviewed his work and am profoundly unimpressed—
a lot of it is plainly not measurement but romantic description.
Other investigators are unable to agree with Kretschmer's findings.
Numerous other efforts to fit temperaments and dispositions to types of body build have been pathetic failures.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. In a sense he is more guilty, because he is the voter who permits
the grafter and racketeer to develop. If every citizen were half as active as the incompetent, unscrupulous politicians and were not, frequently, secretly willing to be in a little on what "Honest John" Kelly—Tammany leader in the seventies—called, "honest

graft," we would soon realize Plato's Ideal Republic.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. It will destroy it. And something close to that seems to be happening right now in both the United States and Canada if success in business, teaching, law,
medicine, and in the skilled trades
is any indication of intelligence and character above average, because, without exception, these classes are dying out. A slight decline in average intelligence produces a staggering decline in the number of leaders at the top of the intelligence scale and a staggering increase in the number of stupid people at the bottom.

OLD-TIME
SPICE LAYER CAKE
with coffee-
raisin frosting

TRY AUNT JENNY'S SPICE LAYER CAKE

3/4 cup Spry
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine Spry, salt and spices. Add brown sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. (Cake-mixing goes so quickly and easily with triple-creamed Spry, women say.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Stir flour, baking powder, and soda together 3 times. Add small amount of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth.

Bake butter into two 9-inch layer pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Spread Coffee Raisin Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. The rich, fruity flavor of this frosting blends marvelously with the fragrant spicy layers. Notice the fine grain this Spry cake has—how long it stays fresh! But remember, use Spry in this recipe and be sure of best results!

ARMY'S BELIEF AS TO NEED IS GIVEN CONGRESS

Committees Told United States is Weak in Comparisons

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The army high command passed along to Congress today its belief that "any future war will at least start in the air."

Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, deputy chief of staff, offered that observation in telling the House military committee that 19 new mobile anti-aircraft regiments were needed to supply a "reasonable" ground defense.

This nation is "weak, compared with other nations," in its defense from bombing attacks, Marshall said in replying to questions from committee members considering President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program.

The House and Senate received from their respective naval committee chairmen a bill sponsored by the navy to authorize the development or increasing of twelve naval air bases, including Guam in the mid-Pacific.

Broad Inference
On the national defense situation, Congress was given a broad inference that 10,000 army planes remain a long range administration objective.

Detailing Roosevelt's recommendations, Major General Henry H. Arnold proposed to the House military committee a new 6,000-plane limit on the army Air Corps, but made it clear this referred only to fighting planes.

Rep. May (D-Ky.), the committee chairman, introduced such a bill yesterday.

On the basis Arnold outlined, almost as many training and other semi-military aircraft will be required in carrying forward into the second and third years the initial increase of a "minimum" of 3,000 planes which Roosevelt recommended.

Can Equal Germans
Arnold, smiling, white-haired air corps chief, estimated yesterday the American aircraft industry could more than triple its present output to 12,000 planes in three years—a production figure which, the administration has heard, Germany already has attained.

Representative May said he hoped to have legislation authorizing the army increases ready for House consideration before the end of January.

Ten Figure Skating Championships Put On Auction Block

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ten national figure skating championships were put on the block today to be auctioned off among a field of more than 60 blade artists on the basis of grace and difficulty of individual efforts.

The event which opened today and will continue through Saturday is the National Figure Skating championships, a preliminary to St. Paul's annual winter carnival to be held January 28-February 5, inclusive.

Competition over the three days will be in men and women senior singles, men and women junior singles, men and women novice singles, senior and junior pairs, dance pairs, and championship fours.

Most of the nation's leading figure skaters are included in these divisions.

Seeking the men's senior singles title for a fifth straight year was 19-year-old Robin Lee of St. Paul.

Last of Americans in Spanish Forces Will Be Evacuated

Barcelona, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Eighty-eight Americans, former members of the International Brigades, arrived in Barcelona from the Valencia area today with the expectation of being evacuated to France shortly.

This will virtually complete the withdrawal of all United States former fighters from Spain.

The United States consulate, manned by Vice Consuls Douglas Flood and John Jernegan, was expected to remain in Barcelona indefinitely.

The embassy has been in the little town of Llanvaneras, about 20 miles north of Barcelona on the coast, since last spring.

It is manned by Walter D. Thurston, charge d'affaires. Four United States warships are now near in the Mediterranean and are believed to be ready to stand by if necessary.

Petting in Picture Show Costs Man $20

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Petting in a picture show with his fiancée cost Milton E. Knapp $20.

But the judge who fined him promised to marry him next month—free of charge.

Young Knapp was convicted yesterday of battery against Mrs. Esther Steiner, manager of the theater, who said she was hit on the jaw when she protested the couple's necking.

"She hit my boy friend with a flashlight and I slapped her," testified pretty Alice Donnelly. "They should have arrested me."

He Married an Angel

Chinese Morale High Says U. S. Ambassador

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ruddy-faced Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China, told reporters today before conferring with President Roosevelt: "The Sino-Japanese war has proved beyond a doubt that bombing from the air does not win a war."

The envoy, who has spent half his life in the Orient, reiterated his prediction that the conflict would continue for a long time. "I found the Chinese morale high," he said. "They were full of hope in the future. I did not find them necessarily discouraged."

"China has not been utterly devastated by the war by any means. Life in the cities re-begins immediately after a bombardment ceases. An attempt is made at once to clear damaged areas."

Monopoly Committee's Probe Turned to Television Industry Today

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The federal monopoly committee traced the operation of the patent laws into the field of television today, with Philo T. Farnsworth of Philadelphia, vice-president of the Farnsworth Television Corporation, as a witness.

John A. Diener, special assistant in the department of commerce, said Farnsworth held the basic patent on television. He added that Farnsworth conceived the idea when he was a 14-year-old farm boy and overcame "all the difficulties in the world" to obtain patents.

The committee heard testimony yesterday that radio tube manufacturers have not availed themselves of an important invention in the vacuum tube field, although it would result in a tube that would last much longer and would require less current.

Stolen Relief Checks Cashed in Williamson

Marion, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—County officers today questioned merchants of Marion and Herrin in an attempt to identify a man who cashed 14 of 53 checks which Relief Administrator Robert Leck said were stolen from the mail receptacle at the relief office here last week.

Leck said the checks were payable to relief clients and had a cash value of between $250 and $300.

County officers said the 14 checks which had been cashed apparently had been endorsed by the same person. Most of them were received by Williamson county merchants in payment for merchandise.

Fourth of July Casualties Finally Totalled

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Last year's Fourth of July celebration resulted in 25 deaths and 7,933 injuries caused by firearms and fireworks, it was disclosed today in a survey by the American Medical Association.

There was one death in Illinois and a total of 513 injured. Four states had more injuries, the survey showed. Pennsylvania led in the number of fatalities with 8, followed by Indiana and New York, 4 each, Maryland 3 and Connecticut, Mississippi, Ohio, West Virginia and Oklahoma 1 each.

The 1938 total was an increase over 1937 when 20 were killed and 7,205 were injured.

One of the earliest printed picture books is the "Pictured World" by John Amos Comenius, issued in 1657.

Elimination of Emergency Element Asked

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Elimination of the "emergency" element in unemployment relief and public works construction and substitution of long-range planning was urged by speakers today before the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Robert L. MacDougall, assistant administrator and state engineer for the WPA administration in Georgia, said the very progress made by scientists and engineers "has left us millions of idle workers with no means of support—people who are potential producers of commodities that we need."

"To create useful work for these people is the most challenging task that we as engineers face today," he said, "and we must call on statesmen, economists, statisticians, financiers, etc., to help us solve our problem."

MacDougall said he had "grown tired of the hackneyed stories about shovel-throwing WPA workers, and about employers who want to give people work but can't get them off relief."

Stanley H. Wright, regional engineer for the PWA, Atlanta, told the engineers that "there is no escaping from the fact that the projects constructed under PWA will be serving a useful service long after PWA, you and I, are gone and forgotten."

Liner Survived Hurricane; Lands Today

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Stories of hysteria and near panic among 360 passengers of the Italian liner Vulcania, struck by a furious storm which silenced its radio off the Azores on Tuesday, were told today when the ship reached port.

J. M. McClelland, publisher of the Longview, Wash., Daily News, said at least six passengers were injured and that scores were bruised as the vessel wallowed in mountainous seas.

"The waves crashed over the top of the ship, breaking windows on the top deck," he said.

"The hurricane struck at 12:30 o'clock, just at the lunch hour, and all we could do was sprawl on the floor and try to hang on. The wind reached a velocity of 125 miles per hour."

"We never expected to live through it. There was general hysteria. Women fainted and screamed. Everybody was praying."

McClelland said the radio antenna was torn away soon after the blow struck.

"Ninety per cent of the passengers were sick," he said. "Some of the stewards tried to crawl along the floor to serve hot broth and food, but it was like climbing the face of a cliff going up and down."

"The storm came up suddenly and found the ship totally unprepared. Furniture crashed and flew around hitting people. I saw a man with a broken arm and a woman with a broken shoulder. Most of us got bruises. To make it worse, doctors simply couldn't reach those who had been hurt."

Italian line officials said the ship had met five days of bad weather with continuous high headwinds, but declined to confirm passengers' statements as to the number injured. Line officials said the peak wind velocity was 67 M. P. H.

Postmen's Plea for Free Rides Dismissed

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Illinois Commerce Commission dismissed today the application of Chicago mail carriers for free rides on the Chicago elevated lines.

The mailmen's complaint against discontinuance of the free rides in November, 1937, set forth no charges of violation of the public utilities act, the commission held.

Announcement of the ruling said the complaint "presents a legal question concerning a controversial matter arising by virtue of a contractual relationship, and is one that the commission is without jurisdiction to decide."

Formerly, all mail carriers in uniform were given free rides on the elevated lines.

Hero Learns of Being Honored 34 Years Late

Olathe, Kas., Jan. 19.—(AP)—For 34 years W. G. Shanzoltz didn't know England had awarded him a medal for valorous service in the Boer war.

Recently he wrote the British war office for a duplicate of his service record. Yesterday he received both record and medal.

"They sent a letter along with the medal," Shanzoltz said. "They said they had been trying to find me ever since 1904."

Shanzoltz shipped to Africa on a horse boat, joined the imperial lighthorse cavalry and later roamed over the world. He now is a WPA worker.

Miami, Fla., reported business around Dec. 1, 1938, showed a 103 per cent gain over the same period of 1937.

The aggregate area of the West Indies is nearly 100,000 square miles.

DEMPEY AWARDED MEDAL TO MEMORY OF HIS FRIEND, NEIL

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The story of a friendship that started in a Saratoga Springs fight camp 13 years ago was told anew last night in a Manhattan dining room when Jack Dempsey received the Eddie Neil medal, memorial to The Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent, Dempsey's dearest friend among the writers.

The award was for Dempsey, symbol of his work as the man who had done most for boxing in 1938. James J. Walker, mayor of New York in the gay days when Dempsey was young and heavy-weight champion of the world, was there. So was General Hugh Johnson. So were nearly a hundred working newspapermen. For most of them, when they stood up and drank a toast to his memory, Eddie Neil, killed in Spain on assignment a year ago, was there too.

Dempsey talked of Neil as he first met him in 1926 when he was preparing for his first match with Gene Tunney.

"I liked him right off," said Jack. "We were pals from then on. You fellows have done me a great honor. This is a very happy moment. I am happy and proud to receive the medal—but I am happier that it perpetuates the memory of my good pal, Eddie Neil."

Tributes To Neil

One by one the speakers got up to speak of Neil.

Jimmy Walker said "I knew him, but I know him better now. I have never heard so many fine things said of any man. The speeches have been a real tribute."

Alan Gould, former sports editor of the Associated Press and present assistant to the general manager, pointed out, "It is fitting that this award go to Jack Dempsey. There was no essential difference between the two, Dempsey and Neil. Both were hard fighters, good losers and straight shooters."

Others who spoke were General Johnson, Abe Green, New Jersey state boxing commissioner; General John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission; Byron Price, executive news editor of the Associated Press, and Bill Corum, sports columnist and one of Neil's best friends.

Made Party a Brilliant Success

About two and a half million dollars' worth of jewels flashed at London's recent "Beau Geste" party. Lady Bridget Poulett, left, wore a million dollars in pearls alone. Mrs. Charles Sweeney, right, displayed a fortune in diamonds and rubies.

German Film Actress, Piqued, Leaves Today

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Piqued at the reception she received in Hollywood, Leni Riefenstahl, German film actress and producer and friend of Chancellor Adolf Hitler, was homeward bound today.

Before sailing on the German liner Hansa last night, she said: "It is not a secret that they boycotted me in Hollywood. I was disappointed in Hollywood, because I thought they were not very kind and they didn't have very good taste."

Her temper flared when a reporter asked whether her Hollywood reception were not comparable to what a Jewish producer might receive in Germany.

"You are a bad man," she retorted. "All you do is put down the things that are not good."

Unmistakable one of Neil's best friends.

Increased Domestic Sugar Consumption Sought by Gillette

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he was preparing a bill to increase the domestic consumption of corn by encouraging the use of a blend of corn and cane sugars.

He said it probably would provide for an excise tax on straight cane sugar and exempt sugar which was 90 per cent cane and 10 per cent corn.

Gillette said the cane and beet sugar industries, under his plan, would retain 90 per cent of the domestic market.

"Of course the cane sugar refiners will be on my neck," he said. "I don't expect the bill to get through at this session, but I want to present it with a discussion of the underlying facts so the members of congress can be thinking it over."

Army Day April 6, Endorsed By President Today

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt endorsed today the forthcoming celebration of Army Day, April 6, with the comment that "in these troublesome and disturbed times, it is fortunate that one day a year can be designated as belonging particularly to our army."

On such a day, he said, it is well that the public takes note of the army's readiness and requirements.

Roosevelt sent this letter to Col. Edward N. Wentworth, Commander-in-Chief of the Military Order of the World War:

"Army Day has come to be of special significance to all citizens of the United States. The past several years have witnessed a notable growth of public interest in our land defensive forces and a most gratifying increase in public understanding of the truly protective missions of the various elements of the army of the United States—regular army men and citizen-soldiers."

"To the Military Order of the World War, under whose auspices Army Day was inaugurated some twelve years ago and under whose sponsorship Army Day activities since have been conducted, must go a great deal of the credit for the increased respect for and understanding of our military establishment, its personnel, its functions, and its responsibilities."

"In these troublesome and disturbed times, it is fortunate that one day a year can be designated as belonging particularly to our army, on which day public attention is focused on the military establishment—its readiness to assume its emergency responsibilities—and its requirements. If we are to afford our defenders means adequate for the successful accomplishment of the missions assigned them by the people of the United States."

Since the richer gold mines were worked out the population of Yukon territory has declined from 27,000 to about 4,000.

Brain Twizzlers

THIS ONE WAS AGED IN IVORY

A venerable and ardent Brain Twizzler, identity unknown, had a hobby of brewing Twizzlers of his own. Many of his mental concoctions were real gems but one in particular that he was interested in required that he wait almost a whole year until he reached his birthday so that he would be at the particular age which would lend authenticity to the problem. Finally the time came and here is the result: This venerable Twizzler had a son whose age in numerals could be reversed, thereby giving the venerable Twizzler's (his father's) age. In order to give a hint the venerable Twizzler said that he was twenty-seven years old when the son was born. What are the ages?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler

The tribes: 1. Iroquois. 2. Huron. 3. Algonquin. 4. Sioux. 5. Delaware. 6. Hopi. 7. Blackfeet. 8. Cree. 9. Shoshonean. 10. Mohican.

Severance of Relations With Hitler Urged By King

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Sen. William H. King, Utah Democrat, pledged today to support a measure to sever diplomatic relations with the Nazi government, which he said was "condemned as an international criminal" because of anti-Semitic policies.

"The American government," he told the 36th biennial council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations at its banquet last night, "should have no relations such as exist between civilized nations with the German government if these persecutions of Jews persist."

"Speaking for myself, I personally will support a measure for non-intercourse with Germany," Former President Herbert Hoover, in a message to the council, also voiced indignation of minority persecutions. His message read in part:

"I would like to be numbered among those who express to your conference the sympathy and interest which all decent Americans hold in the problem with which you are confronted at the present time. x x x

"It remains to those who steadfastly hold to religious and political ideals to join in every relief that can be extended."

Illinois' Crow Bombing Drives Well Under Way

New Berlin, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Thousands of dead crows dotted the snow today along a hedge row on the Wellington Hofacker farm six miles southwest of here. They were killed in a rookery bombing by the state conservation department.

The department's predator control crew, headed by Frank S. Davis of Havana, announced the rookery raid was one of the most successful of the crow eradication campaign now in its fifth year. Davis estimated nearly 30,000 birds had been killed by dynamite bombs.

From a vantage point a half mile away, a small group watched as Davis and assistant, Godfrey Biesenthal of Springfield, crept away to attach blasting machines to wires on 180 especially designed bombs strung through the trees.

Davis and J. C. Warner, mechanic at Havana, in 1934 originated the bombing method of killing crows, which they say cause untold damage to farmers and injure to wild game propagation.

Since then about 750,000 of the black pests have been killed and other states have copied the plan. The bombs consist of metal cylinders into which is placed a stick of dynamite packed with one and one-third ounces of chilled shot. Blasting caps are attached, the bombs wired in series and exploded with plunger-type detonators.

Davis doesn't look down upon crows' alertness. He's had too many bombing plans postponed because a few wary birds became startled and led the flock away before the blast could be set off.

Tonight he plans another bombing in Christian county. Last night's was the 13th this winter.

East Chicago Company Is Accused by S. W. O. C.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Allegations of unfair labor practices were contained in a complaint issued today by Leonard C. Bajork, regional director for the National Labor Relations Board, against the Continental Roll & Steel Foundry Co., East Chicago, Ind., one of the world's largest producers of miscellaneous steel castings.

A public hearing on the complaint will begin Jan. 26 at the city hall in East Chicago before a trial examiner from Washington, D. C. Robert R. Rissman, labor board attorney from the Chicago office, will present the board's case.

The complaint was issued upon charges filed by Van A. Bittner, regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, a CIO affiliate, on behalf of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers.

The complaint alleged the company discharged six employees for union membership and union activity, and also that the company formed an independent union and urged employees to join it.

Archbishop of Chicago Got No. 1 Auto License

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 18.—(AP)—George Cardinal Mundelein, Catholic Archbishop of Chicago, again holds Illinois auto license No. 1 in the low-number list of 1939 licensees. Governor Homer again has "Official No. 1," a separate classification.

As announced by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, two new names appeared among licensees holding plates No. 1 to 10. Leigh Call of Springfield, former newspaper owner, received No. 8 which last year went to Mrs. Eva T. Gurley, Chicago. License No. 9 went to Joe Hemp of Macomb, president of the Hemp Manufacturing Co., which has manufactured the Illinois plates under contract for the last two years. The number last year was held by Orson K. Tyler, Chicago.

Others who kept their one-digit plates included: Henry W. Austin, Chicago, No. 25; Former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, Mt. Vernon, No. 3; H. T. Hollingshead, Chicago, No. 4; State Senator W. E. Clifford, Champaign, No. 5; Herbert B. Barthol, Springfield hotel man, No. 6; and Mrs. John G. Oglesby, Elkhart, No. 7. The latter license last year was held by her husband, the late former lieutenant governor.

Licensees receiving plates numbered under 100 included: Ira C. Copley, Aurora, newspaper publisher, 41, 44 and 92; John T. McCutcheon, Chicago cartoonist, 19; William G. Stratton, former secretary of state, 79; William Harbridge, Chicago, president of the American League, 85; former Governor Frank O. Lowden, Oregon, 99.

Jury Finds No Munity Marred Schooner Trip
Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—New legal squalls were kicked up for the schooner Metha Nelson today despite a federal grand jury's decision that no munity marred her luckless cruise last fall in search of pirate treasure.

The grand jury refused to return munity indictments against Charles Segal and Abraham Kapellner, thus terminating an investigation by G-men of the deep sea adventure which ended with a hurricane.

Exonerated of trouble-making, the pair hired an attorney to determine "the possibility of legal recourse for their imprisonment and embarrassment."

The expedition to Cocos Island, of the Costa Rican coast, was organized by Marino Bello, stepfather of the late Jean Harlow, who married nurse Evelyn Husby a few days out to sea.

Sentences of Four Election Officials in Chicago Reduced

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—In accordance with a recommendation of the Illinois Appellate Court, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday sentenced four election officials to serve 90 days each in the Cook county jail for violation of the election laws during the primary April 14, 1936.

Three of the officials, Harry Gustison, Democratic judge; John Capra, Republican judge, and Charles Saltzman, Republican clerk, originally had been sentenced to serve one year each but, the Appellate Court held this penalty was too severe. The fourth official sentenced was John Spizzirri, a Republican judge who was not in custody when the prosecution started. He pleaded guilty yesterday.

Jack Swift, a Democratic clerk, who had served nine months of the original sentence, was ordered released. The higher court ruled that his sentence be reduced to 60 days.

Annual taxes of more than $1-000,000,000 are paid on the motor vehicle property in the United States.

A movement is under way in California to make three years' residence in the state a requisite for relief.

German Cabinet Changes Denied By Press Chief

Berlin, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The press chief of the German government, Dr. Otto Dietrich, today took the usual step of personally issuing to foreign correspondents a complete, emphatic and categorical denial that any cabinet changes were contemplated either now or at any time in the near future.

Rumors of impending changes had become so general in Germany and had been launched among foreign press representatives with such consistency by persons ordinarily in the know that a denial was deemed necessary and advisable in the interest of clarification as well as amicable international relations.

(Rumors circulated yesterday in Berlin circles usually considered well informed that the following shifts in the Nazi leadership were likely: appointment of Field Marshal Hermann Goering as vice chancellor and war minister; appointment of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels to be chief of Nazi party district leaders and transfer of his propaganda and press functions to Dietrich himself, to the foreign office and to Goering's office; retirement of Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick and his replacement by Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police.)

Another government spokesman informed correspondents that if, as was most likely, the reichstag met Jan. 30 Chancellor Hitler would deliver a long speech dealing, he supposed, with the Austrian and Sudeten accretions to Germany, with the Jewish question and with other problems both international and domestic.

All talk of Marshal Goering's going to London in the near future was nonsense, he said.

Texas officials estimate the state is losing $200,000 a year from people who ship their cigarettes into the state by parcel post to avoid paying the state cigarette tax.

Hang Out the January Welcome to Cabbage Cousins for Added Vigor and Vitamins, Says Emily Lautz

Telegraph Cooking School Instructor Gives Hints.

Dear Friends in Dixon: January A-B-C's include more than inventory and linen sales.

It is a wholesome season to welcome the frequent appearance of those cabbage cousins, Brussels sprouts and broccoli. In addition to being considered very good and health-bringing members of the cabbage family, both are at their best during the winter months when their contribution is most important.

One authority defines broccoli as "merely a hardy late-maturing sort of cauliflower." The United States government, in a recent publication, says:

"According to most botanists, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, green sprouting broccoli, Brussel sprouts, kale, collards and kohlrabi are very closely related, being horticultural forms of the same basic species."

All these forms or varieties are supposed to have arisen from wild cabbage, which still grows along the coastal regions of Europe and northern Africa. Its use by man as food antedates written history, and it is believed to have been in fairly common use for more than 4,000 years.

Cauliflower and broccoli are believed to be more recent additions to the various types of cabbage and to have been developed from the green sprouting broccoli. Brussels sprouts were not mentioned by the early writers prior to 1759, but by 1793 this vegetable was an article of international commerce. Its origin generally is ascribed to Belgium. Tender, fine-flavored sprouts are considered the most delicate of all the members of the cabbage family.

Quotes Bulletin
A recent bulletin issued by the New York state department of agriculture and markets reminds that members of the cabbage family are among the best of all vegetables, for they add valuable minerals and vitamins to the diet. They are even helpful to those who watch their calories, for none of these vegetables, with the single exception of Brussels sprouts, adds more than 100 calories per pound as purchased. And sprouts add only 200 calories.

Although some of these cabbage forms have more vitamin C than others, all rate as excellent sources of this vitamin, which must be supplied daily because it cannot be stored in the body. All of the "cousins" are rich in vitamin A and in calcium and iron. The greener the leafy vegetable, the more vitamin A, calcium and iron it is likely to contain.

The leaves of broccoli are one of the very richest vegetable sources of vitamin A. The flowers are excellent and even its stems have more of this vitamin than most vegetables. This means that there is practically no waste in a fresh, clean bunch of broccoli that is not over-mature. Some of the heavier stems may be peeled with a sharp knife before cooking.

In buying broccoli, canny shoppers look not only for tender, firm stalks, but they also inspect the buds in the clusters or heads. These buds should be compact, and should not have reached the stage of development at which the color of the flower is evident. The general color should be darkish green, or purplish green, depending on the variety.

Old broccoli will be tough and woody. Sprouting broccoli that shows yellowed or damaged leaves should be examined carefully and tested for tenderness. Excessive trimming usually is necessary to prepare it for use, so it is no bargain, even at a "special" price. Wilted, flabby broccoli also should be shunned. An occasional open blossom does not indicate over-maturity.

Sprouts Easy to Judge
It is fairly easy to judge the quality of Brussels sprouts. They should be hard or firm, compact and a bright green color. Often low-priced sprouts look rather puffy. These are edible, but usually quality and flavor are poor. Aged or stale sprouts will have telltale yellow leaves and a wilted look. By all means, avoid sprouts with riddled leaves.

Sprouts combine excellently with other vegetables, such as celery, and they are delicious as a scalloped dish, in a rich cream sauce, covered with buttered crumbs. Try them, too, with chestnuts and sample butter, or the French inspiration of seeded white grapes, which are added when the sprouts are almost tender. The grapes offset any strong flavor. The outstanding broccoli favorite seems to be steamed and buttered broccoli, served on crisp toast, or with Hollandaise sauce. The specialty of a famous New York restaurant for the last fifteen years has been broccoli and cubes of chicken breast, served in a very rich cream sauce.

JANUARY HEALTH-BRINGERS

Steamed Broccoli

Select stalks with dark green, tightly closed buds. Peel tough part of stalk and discard any coarse or wilted leaves. If the stalks are too large for individual portions, split to make of attractive size and shape. One pound should serve four.

Tie in bunches and place with the flower heads up in cooking utensil, either steaming, or cooking uncovered in boiling water 15 to 30 minutes, depending on age. Use as little water as possible and cook very rapidly.

Two important points: Do not overcook broccoli, and do not add salt until last five minutes of cooking. Some cooks like to add one-half teaspoon of sugar, and the same quantity of salt. Drain, arrange on a platter and cover with two tablespoons of melted butter, or browned butter. A thin white sauce also may be poured over the cooked broccoli.

Hollandaise Sauce

One-half cup butter; two egg yolks; one-fourth teaspoon salt; few grains white pepper; one to two tablespoons lemon juice. Divide butter in three pieces. Put one piece in a bowl, (or double boiler top), with egg yolks and lemon juice.

Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until butter melts. Add second piece of butter, and as mixture thickens, the third piece. Remove from fire and season. If the mixture curdles, add two tablespoons of heavy cream, or boiling water, drop by drop.

Another method is to beat the egg yolks and lemon juice into the creamed butter. Season and stir over hot water until slightly thickened.

Tomatoes And Eggs

Butter muffin pans. Put one thick slice of unpeeled tomato in each section. Season with salt and pepper. Break one egg on top of each slice. Again season with salt and pepper and put a small piece of butter on top of each egg. Or buttered crumbs may be added.

Bake in moderate oven until egg is set, but not hard. Serve on rounds of toast, or toasted muffins. Rounded out with milk and fruit, this is an excellent luncheon for children, or grown-ups.

Frozen Crumb Cake

Two cups plain cake, broken in small bits; one cup whipping cream; one-fourth cup chopped English walnuts. Serves four to six.

Whip cream and combine with cake. Add chopped nuts and pour into tray of automatic refrigerator. Freeze. Do not stir. Slice for serving. Any kind of cake or nuts may be used, and fruit may be added to the recipe if desired.

Juice Combination

A new and tangy appetizer is equal portions of tomato and sauerkraut juices. Add a slice of onion for each two cups of combined juice before chilling, but remove them before serving.

Stuffed celery: Stuff the stalks either with prepared deviled ham, or with a mixture of deviled ham, hard-cooked egg and mayonnaise.

VARIETY DISHES

Beef Chop Suey

With the aid of a few inexpensive sauces, powders and other staples of Chinese cookery, the diner may enjoy chop suey at home, according to the expert chef and authority on Chinese cookery, Henry Low.

This recipe is chosen from his new book, "Cook at Home in Chinese."

One-fourth pound flank steak, one cup diced celery, one cup sliced Chinese cabbage, one cup sliced onion, one cup bean sprouts (gna choy), one teaspoon gourmet powder (mei jing), one-half teaspoon black sauce (see yeou), two teaspoons cornstarch, one cup stock or water, dash of pepper, one-half teaspoon salt, pinch of sugar.

Slice beef into small thin pieces. Put beef, celery, Chinese cabbage, onion and bean sprouts in a hot, well-greased skillet. Sauté about two minutes. Add salt, sugar, gourmet powder, pepper and stock. Cover and cook eight minutes, or until onion is soft. Add black sauce and cornstarch, which has been made into a smooth paste and cook two minutes more.

The method for Plain Chop Suey is much the same, except that it calls for one-half cup sliced raw lean pork, rather than beef. Variations are:

Chicago Chop Suey, one-fourth cup each peeled water chestnuts and canned French mushrooms added with vegetables; or add one large tomato cut in six pieces; or, two slices of canned pineapple, cut diagonally; or, a large, thinly-sliced green pepper; or one-fourth cup canned bamboo shoots.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

In looking at the free throw statistics for the Dixon high school cagers, the books reveal that Louis Bevilacqua heads the list with a percentage of 68.4 in eight games. Figures for free throws missed were not available for the first two games Dixon played in the DeKalb tournament, so the percentages are figured on the Alumni, Sterling, Belvidere, Mendota, Glenbard, Huntley and two Freeport encounters. Louie made 26 charity shots and missed 12. Gene McNamera in the same number of tilts made eight free throws and missed nine for an average of 47.1. Wieman made three and missed three for 50.0. Bugg has the same percentage with nine successes and nine misses; Moore has an average of 40.0 with four free throws and six attempts which failed; Page made one and missed seven for .125 and Bush has missed one.

At South Central gym on Tuesday night the Eichlers cage team, a member of the Industrial League here, defeated the Budweiser Gardens crew by a score reported as ending 30 to 12. Ken Barnhart, minus a whistle, did the referee's job and no fouls were called. Those playing on the Eichler squad included Coakley, Killen, Miller, E. Callahan and Hasselberg. Among those for the Gardens were John Naylor, Herb Walker, Victor Potts, Bob Hofmann and Bill Owens.

At Monroe Center last night the Leaf River cagers won a close contest from the hometowners, 20 to 18. It was the victors' seventh straight win in the Route 72 conference and Monroe Center's fourth defeat added to two wins. Leaf River took possession of the first quarter on a 10 to 1 lead, but in the second stanza the hosts began their climb into the threatening regions and the half ended 16 to 7. In the final half Leaf River was held to four points while the Monroe Center lads rang up 11 points in an effort to win. The Leaf River reserves won the first game, 17 to 6.

A DeKalb scribe writes in the daily paper over there: "The high school of DeKalb, having its troubles this season, will hit the road twice this week end, going over to Dixon to meet that tough nut on the Dixon courts and then traveling to Waterman on Saturday night to face Coach May's well groomed outfit that has been going along like a real team all season." The preliminary game here on tomorrow night will start at 7 o'clock and the heavyweight event will follow.

A team of young leatherpushers from Rochelle will meet a Rockford boxing team Friday night in St. Patrick's gym in Rockford. The Rochelle fighters include: Almore Burright, Ronald Handson, Emox England, Roger Cote, Ronald Boddie, Bill Burch and Ralph Harris. The fights are scheduled to begin at seven o'clock. Exhibition bouts will also be included on the evening's card.

Bowling notes: At the Dixon Recreation alleys last night Frank Daschbach really "went to town" in the first game with 289, but dropped down to 146 for the second and 213 for the third to make a total of 648. Riddbauer rolled 202-191-241 for 636 and Ed Worley pined 203-214-188 for 605. Other good games in the Classic League last night included M. Fordham with 234, Badger's 208, Hanson's 224, Beier's 222, Dusing's 234 and Becker's 201.

A week from tonight at Ohio, in the feature bout of the evening, Jack Sharkey of Dixon will take a smack at the comeback trail in his scheduled eight-round match with Donald Friel, the "Tony Galento" of East Grove. Others listed on the evening's card are Kid Hama of Deer Grove vs. Dino Filippino of Ladd for three rounds in the heavyweight class; Jimmie Forder of Sterling vs. Ivan Helmick of Dixon for three rounds in the middleweight division; Welterweights George Carlson of Dixon vs. Paul Hess of Waukegan for three rounds; and Mickey Eberhart of Sterling vs. Jack Hess of Waukegan for three rounds in the light heavyweight division. The fights are scheduled to begin at 8:30 p. m. and Bill Davis of Dixon will act as referee.

"Screen That Ruth Built" May Be Taken Down To Speed Up Browns

St. Louis, Jan. 19.—(AP)—pavilion like rain drops on a tin roof.

The screen covers the pavilion from the top of the wall to the roof and reaches from the right field foul line to deep center. Batter who hit the wire get as many bases as they can, the ball being in play after it caroms off.

The first day the New York Yankees came to town, after the screen had been erected, Ruth smashed two vicious drives against it. He ranted and regaled the patrons with gestures to indicate his displeasure at being "robbed" of home runs.

Screen No Good Now
Now that the Babe is gone, Bill De Witt, vice president of the Browns opined today perhaps the screen was hurting his team's sluggers more than it did visiting home run hitters.

De Witt didn't know the answer to that question, but he said he intended to find out, if possible, by checking past records and if not by keeping statistics of the 1939 season.

If the Browns' home run output would be accelerated without helping other teams too much, De Witt said he would have the screen removed.

CO-CAPTAINS AT DEKALB
DeKalb, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Northern Illinois Teachers of DeKalb, 1938 Illinois Intercollegiate Conference football champions, will have co-captains next year.

They are Paul Blair, tackle from DeKalb, and John Young, end from Rockford. Both are seniors.

I. N. U., BORDENS WIN LOOP GAMES HERE LAST NIGHT

Industrial League Opens Second Round of Play At School Gym

W. L. P. Knacks 4 0 1.000
I. N. U. 4 1 8.000
Bordens 3 2 6.000
Eichlers 1 4 2.000
Reynolds 0 5 .000

A new ginger spiced the opening games of the second round in the Industrial League cage games last night at the Dixon high school gym and the scores were pretty well balanced in comparison to the first round encounters.

In the opening game last night the Reynolds squad sought revenge for the previous defeat by I. N. U. but missed the target by five points as the gas, light and power crew won, 22 to 18. Earl Flanagan, I. N. U. guard, was no note of cheer in the Reynolds wire marching tune as he chalked up 14 points for his mates.

Reynolds' Offense
Eddie Grove, shooting from all angles, was successful on four attempts for eight points in the Reynolds' side of the ledger.

Reynolds took an impressive lead in the first frame with a field goal apiece by Lebre and Fordham. Lebre's was on a foul by Emmert and Fordham's came from a technical called on I. N. U. E. Flanagan made the only two points for the red shirts in the first quarter, but in the second period he sizzled with four field goals to which Emmert and Hall each added one to advance the I. N. U. score by 12 points. E. Grove made the only field goal for Reynolds in that chapter. At the half I. N. U. led, 14 to 8.

In the third stanza E. Flanagan and Kerley each made one field goal for I. N. U. and Emmert and Hall added free throws. Lebre and Rebeck scored a field goal apiece for the wiremen.

With the I. N. U. crew held to a single field goal by Flanagan in the final period, the Reynolds team rang up six points to threaten the leaders. Grove contributed two and Wright connected for one.

BORDENS WIN
History repeated itself in the case of Bordens vs. Eichlers last night when the clothiers lost their second game to the milk company quintet, 19 to 17.

Eichlers made a frantic and desperate effort in the closing minutes to overcome the two-point lead to knot up the game, but the time clock tripped them up and the game went to Bordens for their third win.

Trailing throughout the first half, the milk company boys made a successful and sensational comeback in the final frames to win the game on long set shots and plunges. Eichlers led at the end of the first quarter, 5 to 1, on a field goal apiece by E. Callahan and Coakley and a charity toss by Killen. Bordens' only point was a free throw made by Rahorn on Hasselberg's second foul.

Bordens' Rally
Eichlers held command of the situation in the second period with two field goals by E. Callahan, one by Coakley and a free throw by Hasselberg. Windmill dropped three gift shots for Bordens and Bishop added a field goal as the half ended with Eichlers leading, 12 to 6.

The clothiers' offense was held to one field goal and a free throw by E. Callahan in the third quarter while the Borden machine rolled up nine points on two field goals by Rahorn, one by Windmill and a free throw and field goal by Bishop. The quarter ended in a 15-all knot.

In the final frame a basket apiece by Windmill and Rahorn pulled the victory out of the fire for Bordens and Coakley's one field goal left his mates two point in the rear.

At Freeport last night Dixon's sports record was given another gold star when the St. Patrick's parish boxing team won seven of twelve bouts from the St. Vincent orphanage team. All were three-round matches.

The results of the bouts were as follows:
Parker of Dixon defeated Burlingame of St. Vincent's; Villareal (SV) defeated K. Love (D); Donovan (SV) defeated J. Hannon (D); Guidi (SV) defeated R. Hannon (D); Fane (D) won a technical knockout in first round over Lorenson (SV); Ballard (SV) defeated Richard (D); Martinez (SV) defeated Wallin (D); Callahan (D) defeated Mason (SV); Egan (D) won a technical knockout in first round over Fillipovich (SV); H. A capacity crowd witnessed the fights in St. Vincent's gymnasium.

HEMSLEY ISN'T SO SURE HE CAN'T STAY OUT OF TROUBLES

Delray Beach, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rolling back Rolfe Hemsley, the Cleveland Indians' playboy-catcher, isn't so sure he can stay out of trouble with club officials this year.

"You can't tell," he said today. "I'll probably get along all right with them, but I'd rather make no predictions."

Frequent tiffs have been costly to Hemsley, who never has regarded training rules as sacred. One of Oscar Vitt's first duties as manager of the Indians last spring was to send Rolfe home when the player showed up with a black eye and other evidences of having wandered beyond bounds.

Once the season got under way last year, however, Hemsley settled down to have one of his best years. He batted .296 in 66 games.

Hemsley is valuable to the Indians because of his ability to handle young Bob Feller. The catcher believes Feller will have a successful season this year.

As far as Hemsley is concerned there is no comparison between Feller and Fred Hutchinson, the sensational Pacific Coast League speed ball pitcher who brought a whopping price from the Detroit Tigers.

"Hutchinson ain't as good," Rolfe commented. "He hasn't showed it. The boy's coming up, but Bob's already up."

Lee Wins Contest In The Meridian Tourney Opening

In the opening games of the Meridian tournament last night at Malta the Lee team trimmed Popular Grove on the count of 27 to 14. In other encounters Creston downed Kishwaukee, 27 to 21, and Galedonia defeated Fairdale, 46 to 11.

Lee met Poplar Grove in the second game of the evening and didn't encounter very much trouble in turning the opponents aside. In the first quarter Lee scored six points while the Groves collected three. In the second stanza the Lee offense moved on to collect nine points and the defense held the rivals scoreless. The half ended with Poplar Grove trailing, 15 to 3.

In the third quarter the Groves were permitted to snag only one free throw while the victors rang up five more points. In the final stanza the vanquished staged a fighting rally for 10 points, but the Lee added seven and the odds were too great.

Johnson, Lee forward, was high-point man for the game with 8 tallies on three field goals and two free throws. He was followed closely by his teammates, G. Edwards who snagged a total of seven points.

Tripp and Gould of Poplar Grove each scored five points.

Tonight Lee will meet Kings in the first game at 7:00 o'clock. Malta clashes with Caledonia and West Brooklyn enters the rounds in a game with Lee to end the night's schedule.

TONY GALENTO TO WOW CUSTOMERS IN FIGHT TONIGHT

Argentine Boxer Given Chance of Steer in The Stockyards

Newark, N. J., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The amazing Tony Galento will waddle into the Newark Armory ring tonight and in three or four rounds belt out Jorge Brescia, an amiable Argentine who once won fame by smacking Joseph Louis on the chops.

Brescia, who will weigh 210 to Tony's 235 or thereabouts for the ten round bout, has the sporting chance of a steer in the stockyards. Galento has been named the No. 1 challenger for Louis' heavyweight title by the National Boxing Association and to date has fought no one who might endanger the rating.

Tonight's bout will be the last in the minor leagues for some time for the beer keg that walks like a man. The 20th Century Sporting club has signed Galento and Tommy (Still Trying) Farr for a 15-round duel at Madison Square Garden, March 10.

Expect 10,000 Customers
Galento is expected to lure a crowd of 10,000 or so to the Armory tonight. His home city of Orange, N. J., is hard by and the coldest night of the year couldn't keep the burghers away from the abattoir where Tony is doing his stuff.

The boisterous buffoon is in good voice. On a clear night you can hear him as far east as Montauk Point. As usual he is calling all heavyweights, living and dead, "bums" with Brescia the chief "bum" at present.

Now if Tony can get by Farr, as who hasn't, he probably will get a shot at the winner of the Lou Nova-Max Baer scrap, and if he wins that one, his long awaited chance at "Dat Bum Louis."

"Dem Tramps"
He has no high regard for the trio—or for any man. "Dat Baer quit to Louis—he sez so himself—wait till I get a chance at him. Or dis Nova, a kid. I can lick 'dem tramps the same night and den taken on Louis."

Maybe so. The prevailing opinion is that Louis, with the moody resentment he bears Galento or anyone who slurs his right to the title, would turn a fight with Galento into a cruel and bloody spectacle that would harm the game.

HORSE RACING IN LIGHT HARNESS IS SET FOR GOOD YEAR

BY E. ROLAND HARRIMAN
(President, Grand Circuit)

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Light harness horse racing, which enjoyed one of its best seasons in 1938, definitely is headed for bigger and better things in 1939 if for no other reason than it is to be sponsored by one organization for the first time in history.

The formation of the United States Trotting association during the closing days of 1938 and the early part of this year was the most outstanding forward step ever taken by the light harness sport. It means much more than just merging of the National, United and American Trotting Register associations.

Whereas in the past the parent bodies were composed of various track associations alone, the new organization is one that also includes owners, breeders and trainers, all working for the improvement of the sport. I don't see how the sport can fail to prosper with one set of conditions designed to please the public by proper regulation of the conduct of racing and with only one registration certificate required.

"PATCHING" OF U. S. DEFENSE IS CONDEMNED

Military Expert Calls the President's Plans
"Makeshift"

The nation's foremost writer on military topics—George Fielding Eliot, author of "The Ramparts We Watch"—looks at the all-important special message in which President Roosevelt asks Congress to finance a quick "minimum program for the necessities of defense." This is an exclusive dispatch to NEA Service and the Dixon Evening Telegraph.

Washington.—The President's message calling for certain national defense expenditures totaling $525,000,000 is obviously a makeshift—a whole series of makeshifts.
Worthy as many of its objectives are, this message continues the methods by which our defense policies have been handled in the past: a patch here and a patch there, a few more of this and a few more of that.

It will be supplemented by the annual appropriation bills, made up in the usual fashion—by the military and naval subcommittees of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, working separately in water-tight compartments. They act on the recommendations of the Bureau of the Budget as supported by the testimony of officers of the various arms and services concerned. Then there will be further alterations by the Senate's committees, and on the floors of the House and Senate.

This, it is submitted, is no way to build up a defense policy for a great nation in a world so full of dangers as this.

What is needed is a complete survey of the whole problem of our national defense, a complete stock-taking of the new world situation and of the measures we must take for our security in the face thereof.

What is needed, in fact, is what this nation has never had—a coordinated, well-rounded military policy, consistent with the foreign policy it is intended to implement. This military policy should embrace all the necessary ingredients of our defenses by land, sea and air, including not only weapons and men, but bases and supply.

What we require is a balanced defense; one in which the navy, complete in all its requirements including aviation, shall play the principal part. It should have the necessary bases to give it full freedom of action, while the army should be sufficient in strength and equipment to make those bases secure and to provide a reserve of offensive and defensive power by land and air for emergencies.

Behind this must be the necessary industrial organization to maintain the fighting forces in the field at full efficiency.

This means planning. It is true that speed is necessary, as the president says. But in the end it will assuredly be found that both time and money will be saved, and safety far more definitely assured, by doing the planning first.

There should be created, immediately, a special select Joint Committee drawn from the membership of the Military and Naval Affairs Committees (and perhaps the Foreign Affairs and Appropriations Committees) of the House and Senate, to make such a study. The best obtainable technical advice from the Army and Navy should be called in, of course.

Such a Joint Committee would in no way interfere with the regular work of the standing committees. It would concern itself with the problems of national defense in their broad general aspects. Its findings would assuredly not only greatly clarify these problems and make far easier and more productive the labors of the regular committees, but would command so considerable a measure of public interest and support as to insure this country a continuing policy of national defense which shall make us truly secure.

It would contribute also in great measure to the ironing out of inter-service difficulties and friction, and the coordination of all elements of our defense.

The additions to our defenses recommended in the president's message are "extras." The regular annual appropriation bills are still to come, and these will provide money for the normal military and naval expenditures, the carrying-out of programs already determined upon.

The appropriations recommended in the special message would provide for certain additional items which the president deems it necessary to have "with as great speed as possible."

About three-fifths of the total is for army aviation—specifically, at least 3000 additional airplanes. The country will desire to know how these airplanes are to be employed, and the strategic purposes which they will fulfill.

It may be suggested that an actual increase of the first-line aerial strength of the Army Air Corps be 3000 planes is probably not intended. A considerable number of planes will be needed for training, and the provision of a reserve to fill in the gap between M-day and the time the airplane industry can begin to fill war orders is a wise precaution. These, however, are conjectures. The message does not make clear how the additional planes are to be used.

Additional weapons—semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft equipment, artillery of various types, ammunition and gas masks—are badly needed by the Army, and $110,000,000 allotted to this purpose will at least make a start toward filling the need.

The provisions for "educational orders" to enable a greater number of plants to acquire experience in munitions work is certainly sound, as is the $27,000,000 allotted for the improvement of the defenses of Panama, our most vital outlying position.

The allowance of $8,000,000 for sea-coast defenses is woefully inadequate; $34,000,000 would be required for our so long neglected Atlantic and Gulf harbor defenses alone.

For the Navy, $44,000,000 is allotted for new submarine, air, mine and destroyer bases recommended by the Hepburn Board. But there is no provision for fixed defenses for such of these as are new bases, unless indeed these defenses are to be manned by marines and operated by the Navy.

The additional naval aviation appropriation of $21,000,000 seems likely to be devoted chiefly to experimental work. It would not provide any very large number of new planes.

The southeastern portion of England has more thunderstorms than any other part of the country, taking the entire year into consideration.

STELLE BUDGET DRAWS FIRE OF G. O. P. LEADERS

Speaker Cross Insists
Trend of Cost of Government Must be Down

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Acting Governor John Stelle's $244,455,000 tentative state budget, praised by Democrats for its "pay-as-you-go" policy, drew the fire today of Republican legislative leaders who threatened to slash governmental appropriations.

"The policy of boosting the cost of government has been going on for six years but from now on we are going to see that the trend is downward," declared Hugh W. Cross, first Republican speaker of the House since 1931.

Praise for Stelle's balanced budget, for the biennium beginning July 1, came from Harold G. Ward, Senate majority floor leader, who said, "We are determined to operate the state on a pay-as-we-go basis without new taxes."

The provisional 1939-41 budget calling for an increase of $1,283,000 over the current biennium general fund appropriations was submitted to the legislature yesterday.

Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, Senate Republican leader, predicted

ed relief appropriations might be cut below the $3,000,000 a month figure suggested by Stelle. Present relief spending is at the rate of $3,900,000 monthly but Stelle recommended a reduction to $3,000,000—a total of $72,000,000 for the biennium.

"The provisional budget would keep on increasing government expenditures even though relief funds are cut and no provision is made for more adequate old age pensions," Cross declared. "I notice that old age pension administration expenses would be increased half a million dollars although the pensions themselves will remain about the same."

The Republican platform called for a $30-a-month minimum old age pension. GOP legislators who are advocating economy so far have refrained from taking any action toward pension increases but Rep. Oral P. Tuttle (R-Harrisburg) has introduced a bill setting the $30 minimum and putting administrative powers in county courts.

The move by Senate Republicans to scale down the Ward deficiency relief bill for $1,500,000 failed last week in the upper House but the first decisive test of the economy movement will come next week in the Republican-controlled House.

Representatives Calvin D. Johnson of Belleville and James A. Nowlan of Toulon said they would seek to lop $1,800,000 from the Ward bill by making progressive reductions in the $3,900,000 monthly allotment starting in April.

Proposals to cut the cost of relief by returning most of the responsibility to local communities came from Benson and Senator Simon E. Lantz (R-Congerville), who unsuccessfully ran for Congressman-at-large last fall. Communities must be made "tax conscious" if they are to take the initiative on reducing relief expenditures, Lantz said.

Son British Prime Minister is Bombed in Irish Hotel Today

Tralee, Ireland, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A violent explosion at the rear of a hotel at which Frank Chamberlain, son of the British prime minister, was staying shattered hundreds of windows and damaged the hotel walls.

Chamberlain, 25, who lives in Birmingham, England, was on a vacation in Ireland. He was uninjured.

Police worked on the theory that the outlawed Irish republican army, which is blamed for a series of explosion in England Monday and Tuesday, also was responsible for this latest blast.

The explosion was believed in some quarters to have been an attempt to kill the British prime minister's son. It was disclosed that young Chamberlain had been guarded by three detectives since his arrival here Monday.

Law to Define Marijuana Drug is Sought

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An amendment to the narcotic law specifying that marijuana is a habit-forming drug will be submitted to the Illinois legislature for approval, Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green said.

Representative Charles H. Weber said he would introduce the bill Tuesday.

Last month the Illinois Supreme Court reversed a conviction for possession of marijuana, holding that it was not named in the 1935 law defining narcotics.
